

Scenario 1

A family is asleep.

A fire has started in a downstairs room. The flames hardly make any noise but they do make smoke. There is so much smoke it starts to seep through the gaps around the door.

The smoke has set off the smoke alarm.

An older girl is asleep upstairs. She hears the alarm.

She wakes her older brother to warn him. They need to get to their parents.

The girl checks the door for heat using the back of her hand. If the door is warm you should not open it, this means a fire is on the other side.

The children go to their parents in their bedroom. The father explains they need to get downstairs and outside.

The family makes their way downstairs and straight outside to safety.

One of the parents uses their mobile to call the fire and rescue service.
